ABOUT US

MJC exists to engage young people in education. We are an independent non-government secondary school for years 9-12. Originating as a ministry of the Uniting Church of Australia, we provide students with an alternative option for education in a holistic, caring and supportive environment.

At MJC, we know it's the small things that make the biggest difference. We do things 'The Jurd Way', delivering a unique combination of education and wellbeing that allows us to see the individual. We're a diverse bunch who keep it real and always look after each other. That's how we create the biggest change for our students and for our team. We're not saving the world, we're realists who think differently and are always up for a challenge. If you're someone who is happiest when you're out of your comfort zone and keen to do work that matters, you'll fit right in.

OUR VALUES

Seek first to understand

We encompass an empathetic nature in all that we do. Listening to others' perspectives and views allows us to understand the why. We keep an open mind and we are patient, creating a place of acceptance, where students can truly be themselves.

Better together

At MJC, diversity is key to our success. We empower personal growth for our students by working together collaboratively and harnessing individual strengths within our own team as well as working closely with parents. Education and wellbeing are both equally important, our unique combination of the two is how we help our students reach their full potential.

Think different

In order to achieve our vision, we require bold and unique ways of thinking. We aren't afraid to try new things and learn from them. We bravely challenge the status quo, as role models for our students to help them confidently forge their own paths in life.

EDUCATION PROGRAM

This program is delivered by teachers employed for their specific areas of expertise and commitment to disadvantaged young people. Students are provided with an alternative education program covering the Australian Curriculum (NSW). Individual programs are created with the student, their family and staff to ensure that all of the student's individual needs are targeted. The program is developed in a way that the individual learning needs of all students are addressed through innovative teaching strategies. This ensures that students are able to engage in learning and gain a practical understanding of the work covered. Within a small school setting teachers are able to individually address the academic needs of each student and curriculum adjustments are implemented to address individual student needs.

TEACHERS AND STUDENT LEARNING SUPPORT OFFICERS (SLSOs)

The College employs highly experienced and dedicated teachers who use innovative programming and teaching styles which allows them to engage student learning in ways that are not possible in mainstream school settings. They have proven established classroom management practices that support students who struggle to learn in their previous classroom setting.

Each classroom has an SLSO who is there to support the students with their learning needs.

WELFARE PROGRAM

The College provides a daily breakfast for all students as well as fresh fruit for morning and afternoon tea. Students are also provided with a fresh lunch daily that is made to order.

Each student is provided with a school uniform.

The College can also offer students and their families financial aid on a need basis.

CASEWORKERS

All students are paired with a caseworker before beginning at the school. Caseworkers support students to set goals and take steps towards achieving them. They work with students when they are struggling with everyday issues such as conflict, relationship breakdowns, mental health, and social issues. With the help of caseworkers, students can develop and implement strategies and supports to help them manage their everyday issues and meet their emotional needs. Each caseworker is trained in different aspects of mental health and trauma to best support the student. Working with a caseworker at Margaret Jurd College allows the student to have one-on-one support as needed to help them identify what is going on for them and how they can make positive changes. By engaging in casework, students learn how to look forward to the future and understand that they have other choices in life that were not available to them in a mainstream school setting.

COLLEGE FEES

Although Margaret Jurd College is a private College we endeavour to keep our fees as low as possible so as not to add an extra burden to our families. The College fees are $30.00 per week.

HISTORY

Margaret Jurd College was born out of a vision to empower young people through supported education and care. Newcastle Youth Service (NYS) was a street service supporting young people at risk within the Newcastle Area. Established as a ministry of the Hamilton Uniting Church Parish, the service quickly became a vital part of the Youth Welfare Sector in Newcastle. In 1985 the Board of NYS commenced a tutorial service in Carrington, using the premises of the old Carrington Club Hotel as an extension of the service. The need for supported alternative education comprising an accommodation service quickly became apparent. Margaret Jurd College was moved to its Lambton premises and grew from a Tutorial Centre to a registered school in 1996. The vision and drive from the beginning came from Dr Margaret Jurd; a Doctor of Psychology who was integral in every step of the NYS story. Dr Jurd's reputation for her work within the Department of Education and Newcastle University established her as a widely respected figure in the community. The College was named in her honour after her passing and continues to grow in the direction inspired by her.
